HOW TO STUDY FOR FINALS

Author: Kiara Klevar

As December is fast approaching, finals are coming with it. Finals can be very stressful, however, there are some ways you can prepare for them.

Form Study groups. Forming a study group will help both you and your classmates prepare for the exam. During these study groups, you can find the strengths and weaknesses of the material. In addition, your group mates can help with any issues or topics you don't understand, and you can help them as well.

Go to study sessions. Many professors host study sessions that go over a final from the previous year or the material that will be on the test.

Furthermore, this will be a great opportunity to ask questions about topics you are struggling with. The student success center also has study sessions for certain classes.

Take a practice exam. The practice exams are similar to the real final exam. Taking a practice exam will help you get familiarized with the questions on the exam and work to help you find certain questions that you have difficulty with.

Make a study guide. A study guide will allow you to review your notes but also have a sheet that contains all of the necessary equations or information for the test. Moreover, this sheet can help you remember any aspects of a topic by having you memorize it.

MORE CLUB TO JOIN

Author: Jared Duffy

Hey Hogies! You've already gotten a few recommendations from me, but I'll end off the semester with a few more clubs to join. The start of a new semester is the best time! Be sure to check GobblerConnect for more clubs to join!

- Horticulture Club - A great every-other-week club to hang out and talk with people who love plants! There's often food, and it's a great place to make some friends! Meetings are Wednesdays from 6-7pm.
- Gobblercraft - Looking for a cool server? It's been a while since I've played myself, but last I saw there was a VERY impressive survival world! Meetings are Saturday from 6-8pm.
- IEEE @ VT - A great society for information sessions and events, especially for electrical engineering and computer engineering majors! More information for events can be found on their Discord.
- We Suck at Cooking Club - A nice spot for those who haven't quite gotten the culinary experience they've been hoping for, this club frequently has cooking lessons and additional social events! More information for events can be found on their Discord.

D2 FOOD COMBOS

Author: Aaiswarya Gopinadam

Are you getting sick of campus food but are too broke to eat off campus? Is your dining plan steadily running out and you're afraid you won't last till Thanksgiving? Fear not, because D2 is a surprisingly solid option! While often looked down upon as a campus dining option, D2 boasts versatile options that can be combined to improve your dining experience! Here are some of our favorite combos!

Ice Cream Float/Mocha

Instead of your usual drink, get ice cream in a cup and add in root beer or your favorite soda! If you don't like carbonation, add coffee to your ice cream and enjoy!

DIY Loaded Cheesy Fries

Get some regular or curly fries from Gauchos and head over to the Salsas nacho station! Ask for just nacho cheese, and pour it over your fries! If you want, you can also load your fries up at the toppings station next to Salsas!

Chicken and Waffles

Bored of the usual fried chicken? Upgrade it by making a waffle at the dessert station and eating it with your chicken! Top it off with maple syrup and enjoy!

Cookie Ice Cream Sandwich

Want more than plain ice cream? Get two cookies from the dessert bar, and make an ice cream sandwich! Additionally, you could get your ice cream in a bowl and top it off with other treats from the dessert bar such as brownies!

DIY Variabowl

Like Pan-Asia but hate the tiny portions? Get your favorite dish with rice, and head over to one of the salad bars! Fill your bowl up with veggies and other nutritional food because you know they never serve enough protein!

Breakfast Burrito

This one's pretty easy! Just get a wrap from the Greek salad bar, scrambled eggs, salt, chicken/vegan nuggets, and cheese. Put everything together, wrap it up, and throw it in the microwave for a delicious breakfast option!
